A3: UPRM Interactive Map

Ever since colleges were invented, freshman students have always been made fun of for not being able to find their classrooms. Since UPRM has a pretty big campus this could be the case to even sophomores and seniors. While you can look up a map of UPRM on their website it is not as user friendly as one would want. The idea that I'm proposing is making an app or webpage that is more interactive than the ones we have today. Two of the features that I would really like this app to have is the ability to hover over a building and the name of the building popping up and I would also like to have a search bar that when one writes the name of one of the building it instantly highlights said building in the map.
